Curriculum Design for Reading

Intent

At Kenn Primary, our intent is that every child will become a reader in our school. The teaching and learning of reading is at the heart of everything the children do. Whether reading for pleasure or across the curriculum, children learn to decode, comprehend, summarise, infer and predict texts, giving them access to the world of information around them. Reading will enable learning in all other areas of our curriculum, and vice versa. All children will leave our school with a love of reading, and the necessary skills to help them to flourish in their secondary education and in life. We work to develop confident, fluent readers who enjoy a variety of literature and who can critically evaluate a range of texts, both fiction and non-fiction as they prepare for transition into Key Stage 3.

We further aim to enrich reading across the school by participating in a variety of opportunities including national events such as World Book Day and National Poetry Day; writing directly to authors that the children have read in class to give their writing a purpose; immersing children in online poetry performances and readings of high quality texts from authors as well as inviting parents into school to read with their children. In Key Stage 1, cosy nook reading areas and puppet theatres enable the youngest children to embrace their imagination and retell stories in an explorative manner. Alongside this, we create an ethos of excitement about reading across the school by utilising reading ambassadors in Key Stage 2 which involves older children reading with younger children and sharing their love and enjoyment of reading.

Our teaching of Reading will contribute towards our Christian vision: 'Sowing the seeds of Kindness, Courage and Faith in God's Good Ground'. We will achieve this by creating successful, courageous, fluent readers where reading can transport children to another world and provide great enjoyment and excitement. Furthermore, pupils are exposed to a rich and varied reading curriculum which helps them develop culturally, emotionally, intellectually, socially and spiritually, empowering them with kindness to better understanding of the world in which they live.

Meeting the needs of all children

Everyone a reader.

Targeted interventions are tailored to support pupils' needs. We will always assess a child's starting point and unpick what intervention is needed to move that child's reading forward. This may be a phonics based resource in a small group or 1:1 session, or a daily additional reading session with an adult to address a particular need. Pupils may work in small groups on fluency and reading with prosody to support understanding of a text or comprehension tasks to develop understanding. We will look for ways to engage reluctant readers such as purchasing specific texts, such as a magazine of their choice, which will motivate them to read. We believe in using pupil voice to find out what the children think about reading and we use pupil surveys to adapt and improve our reading offer. Termly we ask children to give us a list of books they would like to see in the library and we aim to purchase new books on a regular basis to ensure we have books that will appeal to every learner.

Implementation

Reading is a fundamental element of our curriculum and we want children to leave our school as confident, fluent and enthusiastic readers.

In EYFS and KS1:

- In the Foundation Stage, the Read Write Inc pathway is explicitly taught with daily teaching of phonics. They learn all the letters and sounds that make up our language and begin to decode words and read.
- They have phonics books which are read in school in small groups and practised at home. These directly match the sounds they are learning or already know.
- In our EYFS settings we aim to provide a literacy-rich environment through exposure to a wide variety of written language and oral language, as well as creating opportunities for children to explore books through carefully constructed play opportunities, role play and the Arts.

- Children listen to a wide range of fiction and non-fiction books on a daily basis and this focus on reading equips them with cultural capital and preparation for future success.
- Children in our school learn to read in conjunction with all other areas of the curriculum
- All children are read to by an adult every day. Texts are carefully chosen to match the children's abilities, age and interests and it is a time for everyone to enjoy.
- English lessons are taught in a sequence which always begins with a high quality fiction or non-fiction text or video that children get to know and understand very well, teaching them new vocabulary, how to engage a reader and key comprehension skills.
- Daily phonics teaching continues into KS1 as children work towards a phonics screening at the end of Year One, which tests their understanding of decoding words – using their knowledge of sounds to read real and nonsense words.
- Children have opportunities to learn to read individually, in small groups and with the whole class and books are decodable and phonetically matched to the Read Write Inc programme. Children are also encouraged to select a 'book to love' from the school library or their own classroom in KS1 and EYFS, which they can share independently and with an adult and read multiple times for enjoyment, changing daily if required. In Year 2, children work towards SATs and there is a shift in focus in lesson time to learning comprehension skills and vocabulary development.

In Key Stage 2:

- When a child is ready (on occasion as early as Y2), pupils follow the Accelerated Reading Programme with the aim of ensuring children have books that are matched to their reading level and maturity, ensuring challenge, interest and progress. In addition, children are taught reading skills in whole class sessions and guided reading groups which require them to summarise, infer and predict as well as understand the meaning of new vocabulary.

Teachers use VIPERS as an acronym to aid the recall of the 6 reading domains that focus on the comprehension aspect of reading. It is a method to ensure teachers ask, and students are familiar with, a range of questions. This allows teachers to track the type of questions asked and the children's responses to these which allows for targeted questioning afterwards. VIPERS stands for Vocabulary Inference Prediction Explanation Retrieval Sequence or Summarise

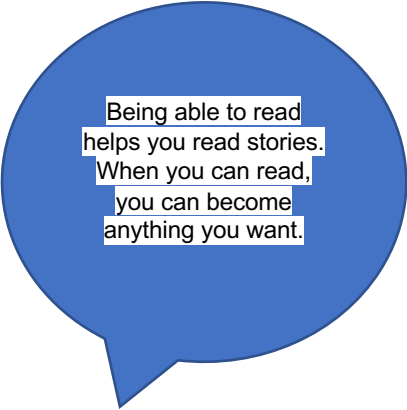

In other areas of the curriculum, reading comprehension, vocabulary knowledge and understanding, communication skills and understanding different text types are all taught within the context of the curriculum theme that children are learning and key texts are used as a springboard for other curriculum areas. This contextual learning allows for deeper understanding and greater application skills. Furthermore, whole school and cross curricular theme weeks based around high quality texts encourage the love of reading and the opportunity to immerse the children in reading a text alongside exploring art, drama and other curriculum areas.

Impact

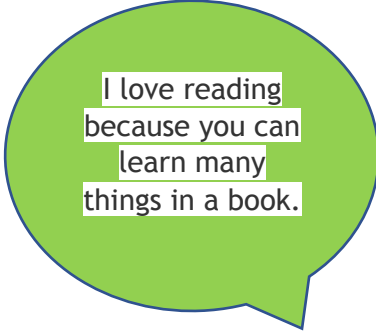

By the time children leave Kenn Primary School, our aim is for all children to be competent readers reading at least at the expected level. We hope to have inspired a love of reading and given them endless opportunities to read for pleasure. We want our readers to have experienced a wide range of genres, a wide range of poetry and to have read across the curriculum to broaden their own knowledge of subject areas. We want our children to be able to participate in discussions about books and recognise themes and conventions in narratives. Developing reading is so much more than a tick box and we want our pupils to be life-long lovers of books who read for a range of purposes and gain immense pleasure from losing themselves in a great story. Reading is the key that unlocks learning potential and our curriculum aims to embed reading across the entire curriculum for all children.

Pupil Voice

(Quotes from children in Year 6
And Year 2 in April 2023)

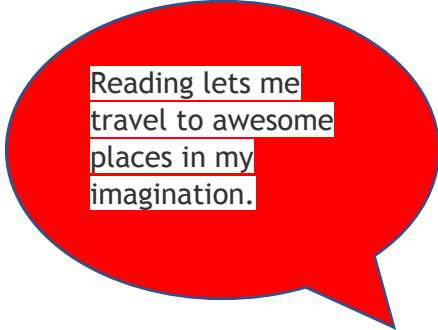

Being able to read
helps you read stories.
When you can read,
you can become
anything you want.

I love reading
because you can learn many things in a book.

The more I
read, the faster
and better I can read

Reading lets me
travel to awesome
places in my imagination.

I like to read
because there are new adventures
all the time.

I love to read
because it helps me learn.

Reading At Home

We know that support from parents with their child's reading plays a vital role in his or her progress. Our expectation is that children read or share books daily with an adult at home. Upper Key Stage Two children, who are reading independently, are expected to read daily to themselves and to an adult at least once a week. Children are rewarded in a variety of ways for regular home reading. In all reading diaries an insert in the front cover gives suggestions to parents on how to help your child make progress.

Library

We have an extensive library, which is continually updated and improved. We use the Junior Librarian system and children enjoy choosing their books and scanning them in and out. Encouraging them to respect and use the library correctly is preparing them for becoming life-long readers and future users of the local library. We have librarians who run the library and ensures it is well-organised and an engaging space for the children to explore a range of books.

Reading for Pleasure

Each class has a class book that is read by the teacher purely for pleasure and enjoyment. Quality time sharing a book is so important as it allows children to develop their imaginations, gives them an understanding of the world and develops empathy for others. It is through hearing stories that children are exposed to a wide range of words, meet various character types and learn the nuances of storytelling. We also have a selection of books in each classroom which the children also have access to, these always include a selection of genres. Making books easily accessible promotes the culture of Pennac's 'Rights of a Reader', the right to 'dip into a book', the right to 'read anything' and the right to 'read anywhere'. Although we encourage children to read and complete books it is equally important to know we read for a variety of purposes and we all read in different ways.

Fred talk: Fred is a toy frog and he can only say the sounds in a word and needs help to read the word. Fred will say the sounds and children will work out the word. For example, Fred will say the sounds c-a-t, and children will say the word cat. This is Fred Talk: sounding out the word.

Special Friends: two letters that make one sound
Each sound has a rhyme to help the children remember the sounds. The sounds are taught in a specific order, shown below, starting at the top from left to right. The children begin by learning the sound each individual letter of the alphabet makes. They then move on to learning how combinations of 2 or 3 letters can make one sound.

Red Words at Set 1

Red words are what we call words the children cannot sound out as they do not follow the phonics language patterns. Their letters make uncommon sounds. The only way to learn these words is from memory, so they need lots of practise! These words are taught alongside new sounds, once the children can read some simple 3 sound words e.g. c-a-t.

These are the red words children should know while working at the set 1 sound level.

Pre and Post Primary Objectives

Because children begin school at very different starting points, and with very different life experiences, we feel it important to include Nursery objectives in our Curriculum Document to ensure that if there are big gaps in a child's understanding, the school can quickly address these gaps and ensure barriers to learning are minimised.

Likewise, throughout a child's time in at Kenn, they may experience a vast range of learning opportunities in Science outside of school with their families. To ensure that a broader and deeper understanding in Science is catered for, we refer to the Key Stage 3 Science objectives to allow teachers to challenge learners and ensure pupils continue to progress.

Nursery Objectives

The statutory framework for early years foundation stage set out the standards for learning, development and care for children from birth to five.

It is crucial for children to develop a life-long love of reading. Reading consists of two dimensions: language comprehension and word reading. Language comprehension (necessary for both reading and writing) starts from birth. It only develops when adults talk with children about the world around them and the books (stories and non-fiction) they read with them, and enjoy rhymes, poems and songs together. Skilled word reading, taught later, involves both the speedy working out of the pronunciation of unfamiliar printed words (decoding) and the speedy recognition of familiar printed words. Writing involves transcription (spelling and handwriting) and composition (articulating ideas and structuring them in speech, before writing)

Key Stage 3 Objectives

Reading at key stage 3 should be wide, varied and challenging. Pupils should be expected to read whole books, to read in depth and to read for pleasure and information.

Subject content

Reading

Pupils should be taught to:

- develop an appreciation and love of reading, and read increasingly challenging material independently through:
 - reading a wide range of fiction and non-fiction, including in particular whole books, short stories, poems and plays with a wide coverage of genres, historical periods, forms and authors. The range will include high-quality works from:
 - English literature, both pre-1914 and contemporary, including prose, poetry and drama
 - Shakespeare (two plays)
 - seminal world literature
- choosing and reading books independently for challenge, interest and enjoyment.
- re-reading books encountered earlier to increase familiarity with them and provide a basis for making comparisons.
- understand increasingly challenging texts through:
 - learning new vocabulary, relating it explicitly to known vocabulary and understanding it with the help of context and dictionaries
 - making inferences and referring to evidence in the text
 - knowing the purpose, audience for and context of the writing and drawing on this knowledge to support comprehension
 - checking their understanding to make sure that what they have read makes sense.
- read critically through:
 - knowing how language, including figurative language, vocabulary choice, grammar, text structure and organisational features, presents meaning
- recognising a range of poetic conventions and understanding how these have been used
- studying setting, plot, and characterisation, and the effects of these
- understanding how the work of dramatists is communicated effectively through performance and how alternative staging allows for different interpretations of a play
- making critical comparisons across texts
- studying a range of authors, including at least two authors in depth each year.
